out of touch

i know you are all waiting for me to finish my stories but i have been unable to due to an accident. i can only type with one hand, and wile i have a friend who is willing to write my blogs for me or help me tweet and stay somewhat out there, it is harder dictating the flow of a story to them. i am getting better and i hope you will be patient with me and wait until i can get to the point where using a keyboard is not painful. very sorry to have left it this long before letting you know, but i was hoping to be better by now.

thank you for your support
